A Poem for Love with a God Center Mindset

Here's a poem about searching for love with a God-centered mindset:

In the quiet whispers of the dawn,

A heart seeks love, where faith is drawn,

With hope and trust in God’s embrace,

A journey begins, guided by grace.

Through valleys deep and mountains high,

A soul does wander, love to spy,

Not in fleeting, worldly ways,

But in the light of God’s bright gaze.

Love that’s pure, with faith entwined,

A deeper bond, hearts will find,

In prayer and praise, and songs of joy,

A love that time cannot destroy.

For in His word, the truth does shine,

A love eternal, so divine,

With every step and every breath,

Seeking love that conquers death.

And when at last, two hearts unite,

In the holy warmth of God’s own light,

They’ll walk together, hand in hand,

On love’s true path, by faith’s command.
